SB14 Workshop and Open Call for Emiratis: Photos and Videos from Personal Archives

With New Orleans Airlift

12 January 2019

2:00 pm–5:00 pm

Local Council (Majlis Al Shaabi), Corniche Street, Sharjah

Open call deadline: TBC

As part of the Sharjah Biennial 14 exhibition Look for Me All Around You, curated by Claire Tancons, New Orleans Airlift will produce a public art project built around the site of a derelict plane in Umm Al Quwain in order to explore notions of community, cultural and national identity, nation-building and home in the UAE.

In the run-up to SB14 and as a means of contributing to the shape and direction of the New Orleans Airlift project, Sharjah Art Foundation is launching an online open call for Emiratis of all ages to submit high-resolution photographic and video materials that are related to personal and family histories and/or the national history of the UAE. These archival materials should be sent by email.

Everyone who submits material online will be invited to participate in an informal workshop held in Sharjah, where there will be a facilitated discussion about the meaning of UAE identity and the state of Emirati culture, past and present. Emiratis of all ages are welcome to turn up and take part in this workshop. This discussion will also be reproduced in some form during the New Orleans Airlift project during SB14 with selected speakers chosen by the artists from the local community. People can also bring in photographs to be scanned and copied by Sharjah Art Foundation during this same workshop. The archival documents gathered and copied will be used both as inspiration for the artists behind the New Orleans Airlift project, and in some cases, with the permission of the owners, as direct material to be displayed at the project site in the form of digital projections.

Featuring co-founder Delaney Martin in collaboration with members Taylor Lee Shepherd and Alita Edgar, New Orleans Airlift, established in 2008, is an artist-driven non-profit that not only creates but also funds and produces most of its own work. Operating largely in the streets and open air, Airlift's people-powered, multi-disciplinary public spectacles of increasingly large magnitude take many forms.

With 31st Century Museum of Contemporary Spirit

Thursday, 31 January 2019, 4:00 pm–8:00 pm; Friday, 1 February, 1:00 pm–4:00 pm and Saturday, 2 February 2019, 1:00 pm–4:00 pm

(This workshop has three sessions.)

Collections Building, Arts Square

Initiated by the 31st Century Museum of Contemporary Spirit (<http://31century.org>), a participating project of SB14, this three-day workshop invites members of the community to learn, enquire and seek to understand the origin of the creative energy of the inner mind. They will share firsthand experiences or secondhand knowledge of events in society that have contributed to the 'love quotient' (LQ). Through the shared learning process, participants will understand the meaning and inspiration behind LQ as spiritual intelligence, which can be measured by simple acts of selflessness, kindness and communal love. The collected narratives from the workshop, along with their visual supplements, will be compiled into an e-book and exhibited as part of SB14.

Established in 2008, 31st Century Museum of Contemporary Spirit is a community art project and conceptual museum that is involved in the conversion of body and mind into a place for artistic engagement. The museum dedicates itself to subjective values of truth, virtue, beauty, knowledge and personal experience, which are all listed under what founder Kamin Lertchaiprasert calls 'spiritual aesthetics'. The projects done by Lertchaiprasert depend on the space and time in which they take place and aim to help attendees gain awareness of the creative value they each possess.
